The Road to Sioux City

• The 32-team field is comprised of 21 automatic qualifiers from NAIA affiliated conferences and association of independents, plus 11 at-large selections, which were determined using the final Top 25 poll released on Feb. 29.

• NeuLion is the NAIA's Digital Media Partner and official video-streaming company of 10 select NAIA National Championship events. The first 30 games from Sioux City, Iowa, will be available via live video stream for $29.95 and any single day can be purchased for $9.95. Also, one can purchase the all-tournament package of all four basketball tournaments for $49.95.

• For the second-straight season, the Great Plains Athletic Conference landed five teams in the national championship: Briar Cliff (Iowa), Concordia (Neb.), Hastings (Neb.), Morningside (Iowa) and Northwestern (Iowa). That number is tops among all conferences/independents. The following leagues/independents will be represented by three schools: Association of Independent Institutions, Cascade Collegiate Conference, Kansas Collegiate Athletic Conference and Mid-Central College Conference.

Celebrating 21 Years of NAIA Division II Women's Basketball

• Since the event started in 1992, 144 programs have qualified for the State Farm-NAIA Division II Women's Basketball National Championship. Of those programs, 88 are still active members of the NAIA.

• Eleven schools have taken home the ultimate prize from just three different championship locations. Sioux City, Iowa, has hosted the event for the past 15 years. Before moving the tournament to Sioux City, the National Championship was held in Monmouth, Ore., from 1992-95, and Angola, Ind., from 1996-97.

• Ten programs from this year's field have recorded double-digit National Championship appearances. Headlining that group is College of the Ozarks (Mo.), which will be playing in its 11th consecutive and 18th overall National Championship. The Bobcats sport a 26-17 record on the big stage and have finished runner-up three times.

• While 10 teams have seen 10 or more trips to the National Championship, three of the 32 teams will be making their first stops: Ave Maria (Fla.), Cal State San Marcos and Point Park (Pa.). In addition to the three newcomers, there are six teams that will be looking for their first wins in tournament action.

• Four-time defending champion Northwestern (Iowa) returns to the field as an at-large qualifier out of the Great Plains Athletic Conference. The Red Raiders lead all NAIA Division II programs with five national championships – all since 2001. Top-ranked Indiana Wesleyan, the last school other than Northwestern to capture the banner, is one of three other qualifiers that have also won a national title. Hastings (Neb.) and Morningside (Iowa) boast three apiece, while Indiana Wesleyan's 2007 championship is its lone title.

• Three schools other than Northwestern have also captured back-to-back titles in Division II history. Western Oregon (1995 and 1996), Hastings (2002 and 2003) and Morningside (2004 and 2005) all defended their title after winning their first championship.

• En route to its fifth national title last season, Northwestern ran through College of Idaho, Sterling (Kan.), Indiana Wesleyan, Morningside and Davenport (Mich.). The Red Raiders totaled 452 points in their five games, coming up just five points short of their 2010 record for most points in a tournament. Becca Hurley became the second player in the history of the tournament to take home MVP honors in back-to-back years. Hurley finished with 297 points in her tournament career - a figure that ranks third all time.

For the 15th year in a row, the Tyson Events Center/Gateway Arena is home to the State Farm-NAIA Division II Women's Basketball National Championship. The venue also hosts the NAIA Volleyball National Championship.
